

On October 22nd, 1922. Received information that a private detective by the name of Charles A. Oliver who is supposed to have an office in New Brunswick might know something about the case. Looked him up in the telephone book and it shows the address of 102 Church Street, telephone number 925 New Brunswick.

Read the different notes from the daily papers alledged to be written by Mr. Hall to Eleanor Mills. After scrutinizing them carefully, I came to a paragraph containing the following vacation at Islesford, Maine, Seal Harbor, August 14th, 1922. To day I sent you a letter. It seems much to us. I mean the one in which I told you I had gotten the telegram from a private detective I told you about, to the effect that it proved it settled Iven Synythe.
